CHOOSE OWN CHURCHES

Each Congregation Will Plan Special
Program Open to Both College
And High School

Student's night will be observed simultaneously next Wednesday, September 28, by all the Protestant churches of Maryville. At this time each church will have a specially planned evening at which the faculty members and students of the College and High School, will be the guests of honor. The invitation is for all students, both those who are here only for the school year and those who reside permanently in Maryville. Each is invited to attend the church of which they are members or which they prefer.

The purpose of this, the first Student's Night of the Maryville churches, is to demonstrate by this simultaneous observance, the keen interest of the churches in everything that trains and enlarges the life of young folks getting ready for the largest usefulness in the world. The churches of Maryville have always been interested in school and college affairs, and have planned Student's Night at the very beginning of the college year to welcome back old students and to get acquainted with those here for the first time this year. Each church will plan its own program of entertainment. Committees are already at work.

An announcement issued yesterday by the war department said it would be necessary for those who accept the invitation to reach Washington not later than the night of November 10. They were requested to furnish the adjutant general with their addresses in order that further information and arrangements for their traveling expenses might be taken care of.

The medal of honor is awarded only for valor above and beyond the call of duty in action against the enemy.

BEGIN TAKING TESTIMONY IN BANK ROBBERING CASE

Man Wanted Here Faces Many Other Charges If Acquitted at Savannah.

After completion of the jury in the case of Leroy Smith, alias Earl Lavallier, "Slippery Slim" and "Hole in the Face," accused of robbing the Farmers State Bank at Rea, attorneys began introducing testimony in the case which is being tried at Savannah today.

There has, as yet, been no indication of what the defense will be. In case he is acquitted at Savannah, he will be subject to arrest and liable for prosecution on various charges elsewhere, as officers of other cities are watching the outcome of the present trial.

Lavallier is wanted here for the robbery of the Enis Bros. store at Clyde and the Big Four hardware store at Parnell, and on suspicion of the murder of Roy Patterson on the High School grounds during the fair two years ago. He is also wanted for alleged complicity in the murder of an officer at Des Moines, Iowa and in Kansas City for participation in a murderous assault in connection with a holdup. There is also a possibility of prosecuting him for escape from the Andrew county jail at Savannah about six weeks ago.

Chas. McCaffrey of Maryville is assisting the prosecution in the case.

COUNTY NURSE TO EXAMINE RURAL SCHOOL CHILDREN

NURSING BOARD MEETS

Miss Betty Turner Is Named Delegate
To National Convention—Directors
To Be Elected Soon

Mrs. Eva Hackney, county Red Cross nurse, will begin her examinations in the rural schools next week. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will be spent in Green township, Thursday in the vicinity of Skidmore. Her schedule is as follows:

Monday—Eudora school, taught by Miss Lorena Palmer, and Hagey school taught by Miss Clella Hedrick.

Tuesday—Bazzard Roost, taught by Miss Olga Lee Rodman, and Pifer, taught by Miss Arcell Ward.

Wednesday—New Hope, Fairview and Carden.

Thursday—Peace and Harmony, taught by Mrs. Bess Cottrill, and Union Valley, taught by Mrs. Myrtle Northrup.

Burlington Junction doctors will accompany Mrs. Hackney during the first two days, while Skidmore physicians will make the examinations the next two. The doctors examine the heart, lungs and scapula, while the nurse examines eyes, ears, throats and noses, weights and measures.

Mrs. Hackney will hold no baby clinics until the first Friday in October, when they will become regular features. She will use Friday mornings for personal visits to homes, "following up" cases found either in clinics or in the school examinations.

Mrs. Hackney will do as much of her country driving as she can in the early fall. Town schools will be visited on rainy days. None of the schools to be visited next week had examinations last year. Of the 163 rural schools and 17 town schools in the county, examinations were made at 90 last year. The other 90 will be visited by Mrs. Hackney this fall and winter. She will then follow up the examinations in the schools visited last year, paying special attention to all students more than 7 per cent under weight.

A meeting of the nursing committee will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the Red Cross rooms to consult with Mrs. Hackney. The members of the committee are Mrs. R. L. McDougal, Miss Fannie Hope, supervisor of the Maryville grade schools; Bert Cooper, county superintendent of schools; the Rev. S. P. Allison, Dr. L. E. Dean, and Dr. H. S. Rowlett.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Nodaway County Red Cross was held Thursday night. Miss Betty Turner, home service secretary, was appointed a delegate to attend the national Red Cross convention next month. F. S. King, Harry Todd and George Robb Ellison were appointed a nominating committee to make nominations from the membership for election to the board of directors.

The members present were Mrs. C. D. Bellows, Mrs. C. C. Hellmers, Miss Lucie Davis, Harry Todd, Bruce Montgomery, George Robb Ellison, F. S. King, Bert Cooper, Mrs. Hackney and Miss Turner.

W. E. Moon, representative of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, was a visitor at the meeting. He explained the relationship between his work and that of the Red Cross.

Mr. Moon said that the Government would give educational training to any injured ex-service man who was handicapped by his injuries, in any recognized school, free of charge, and in addition, would pay the ex-service man during the time he was in school. The courses extend for nearly any length of time up to two years. There are the full two years courses, which are equal to the regular college four year course, a one year course, and the short courses during the winter months. The ex-service man who is eligible to attend may take any course he desires that is in keeping with his previous training and disability.

Mr. Moon stated that eleven men are now in school in the Teachers College here. Another is studying to be a florist, one a mechanic, and the others are in colleges in Kansas City, the state University and at St. Louis.

Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Dowell will leave this morning for Columbia, where they will spend the week end with their son Donald, who is attending the University of Missouri.

AGREES WITH HYDE ON INSURANCE RATES

J. J. HEIFNER AGAIN ATTACKS
FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES.

CHARGES DISCRIMINATION

Says Rates are Lower in Little Towns
Without Maryville's Fire Protection.

Governor Hyde's recent declaration that insurance companies in Missouri are making excessive profits has called forth another statement from J. J. Heifner, who reiterates charges that insurance rates in Maryville are too high. He quotes figures to show that rates on property here are higher than on similar property in nearby towns without fire protection.

His statement is as follows:

"Editor, the Democrat-Forum: 'About three months ago, I called the attention of the business men, property owners and merchants, to the fact that in many cases their fire insurance rates were exorbitant, and that Maryville was being discriminated against by the Actuarial Bureau, and in some cases the rates were nothing short of highway robbery.'

"The Bureau sent two of their expert rate-makers here and after being banqueted, they disputed my assertions and proved to the satisfaction of everybody that I said was not true. After a brief delay, I took their own rate books and showed that the Nodaway Valley Bank, one of the best bank buildings in the county, paid over four times the rate that the bank of Conception Junction paid. That the Real Estate Bank paid almost four times as high as the Conception Junction Bank. I showed that the Teachers College paid the highest rate of any school building in the county, except a frame building in Clearmont, and that the Washington High School, paid as high a rate as the frame public school building at Guilford.

"Now comes along Governor Hyde three months after I made my statement, and says that the profits of the insurance business in this state, are enough every year to run the state government and construct highways at the cost of 50 million dollars every two years. Here are some figures showing the collection and losses paid last year:

Fire insurance companies—collected, $25,515,610; paid in losses $9,249,373.

Life insurance companies—collected, $42,162,004; paid in losses, $11,694,796.

Casualty companies—collected, $11,101,646; paid in losses, $5,187,144. As chief executive of the state I have two duties to perform regarding these companies and their enormous profits. My first duty will be to obtain fair rates to the people of the state, etc."

"I am thinking, would not this be an opportune time to recall the rate makers and rebanquet them and give them an opportunity to show up Governor Hyde."

Yours truly,
J. J. HEIFNER.

CUNARD LINER SINKS TUG—MANY BELIEVED RESCUED.

New York, Sept. 24.—The Cunard liner Caronia this afternoon sank a tug, which had attempted to cross her bow off quarantine. The tug sank immediately and none on board were rescued. Other tugs are now circling the spot where it went down, trying to pick up the survivors. A life boat put off the Caronia was seen to proceed to a point near Brooklyn naval base and return to the wreckage. It is thought that the survivors were carried ashore.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Hopkins were Maryville visitors today. Mrs. Lewis will enter the Conservatory of Music of the State Teachers College.

CLUB WOMEN WILL PROTEST NEW TAX

SAY IT WILL PUT MUSIC IN THE
LUXURY CLASS

NEW DEPARTMENT OPENS

"The Fountain of Youth" A One-Act
Fantasy To Be Given In W. C.
Pierce Garden

Members of the Twentieth Century Club will lead a fight to be made in Maryville against a proposed discriminatory tax on all musical instruments, now pending in Congress. Their action will be part of a nationwide protest by the five million members of the National Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Music and Literature department of the Twentieth Century Club will be the first to consider the matter at its opening meeting, to be held next Tuesday. The music lovers contend that the levying of such a tax on musical instruments would place music in the luxury class and, in so doing, would create a serious menace to the development and prosperity of music in America, which projects today as the greatest musical nation on the face of the earth.

The National Federation of Women's Clubs is probably the most powerful and influential organization of women in the United States, and its members are urged to bury their representatives in Congress under a deluge of vigorous protests.

The meeting at which the question will be brought up will be the first meeting of the Music and Literature Department, formerly the Shakespeare Department. The meeting will also mark the inception of the little theater movement in Maryville, with Mrs. Arthur Brewer outlining the development of the movement, and members of the department giving a one-act play in costume.

The play chosen by the members for their initial production is "The Fountain of Youth," a fantasy by Constance D'Arcy McKay. If the weather is pleasant, the play will be given in the garden of Mrs. W. C. Pierce. If it is unfavorable, it will be presented in Recital Hall of the Conservatory of Music.

The members of the cast have held four rehearsals, part of them in the Pierce garden and the others in the Conservatory Building, to accustom the actors to the conditions under which they will work, no matter what the weather.

"The Fountain of Youth" depicts the search of Ponce de Leon for the magic waters of eternal youth. Mrs. C. C. Leeson takes the part of Ponce de Leon, and Mrs. C. C. Hellmers and Miss Grace Langan will be Cordova and Silva, two of his followers. The place is Florida in 1523.

Mrs. Halley Ford will be the Guardian of the Fountain, and the Daughters of Dawn will be Misses Ruth Miller, Mabel, Evelyn and Laura Margaret Raines. The play will open with the Dance of the Hours by the Daughters of Dawn to Rubenstein's "Melody in F" played on the violin by Mrs. Fleming Carpenter. The Daughters will appear at intervals throughout the play, dancing the Dance of Worship to Lack's "Idyllo" as the Guardian of the Fountain appears, and closing with Grieg's "Death of Ase."

Mrs. D. J. Thomas and Miss Mary MacLeod directed the dances.

DEMOCRATIC ATTITUDE ON TREATIES NOT YET DECIDED

Washington, Sept. 24.—Democratic Senators have not yet made up their minds as to what they are going to do about the German Austrian and Hungarian peace treaties. Senators Swanson of Virginia, Pomerene of Ohio and Shields of Tennessee, the three Democrats who voted for a favorable report of the treaties, announced today that they so voted with the stipulation that they are not bound to favor their ratification. Senator Borah of Idaho announced today that he will make the bitterest fight of his public career against the ratification and if necessary will take the issue to the people. A Democratic conference will be held next week when Senator Hitchcock returns.

TELLS BENEFITS OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

LECTURER HAS LARGE AUDIENCE
AT EMPIRE THEATER

WAS "INCURABLY" ILL

His Recovery Through "Spiritual Regeneration" Called A Miracle
By Family Physician

A large audience was present at the Empire Theater last night to hear Frank H. Leonard lecture on Christian Science. Mr. Leonard is a member of the board of trustees of the First Church of Christ, Scientists, of Boston, Mass. The context of his lecture follows:

Christian Science was first brought to my attention in the fall of 1884, and under the following circumstances. About half my life up to that time had been spent in bed. The physicians all said I had been born with an incurable organic disease, and that it was improbable that I would live to reach manhood. Their statements seemed about to be proved true when, through a case of healing, Christian Science was brought into our home. This led to my having Christian Science treatment, so successfully that three months later our family physician said a miracle had been performed and that I was absolutely free from any physical disease.

Because of my condition and as a preparation for what was deemed inevitable, God had been explained to me far more than is usual with a small child; and the statement frequently made that He sent sickness and suffering as a chastening and purifying preparation for the joys of the kingdom of heaven. Naturally, however, the only thing I thought of was the suffering, and when I was told that God caused it, a terrible sense of fear and of helplessness arose, when love and trust should have been present. We can never love nor trust anything of which we are afraid; therefore the thoughts about God were locked inside my consciousness, because of my fear of giving them utterance. The name, and not the nature, of God, then as now, was all that most people knew; so my surprise was great and unqualified when I learned that the healing work in Christian Science is all accomplished through a right knowledge of God; that there is nothing peculiar or secret about the work done, nor is the ability to do it confined to a select few; it is to be acquired through growth in grace. In fact, Christian Science gives humanity a clear apprehension of the birthright of man, of how to gain it, and how to use it.

Christian Science unfolds to its students that knowledge of God which keeps one well mentally, morally, and physically, and shows that ignorance of Him is the precursor of sin, sickness, and death. It teaches that regenerated thinking means regeneration in all ways. It reveals through an endless, infinite vista of Christian idealism, God enthroned and omnipotent, omnipresent, and omniscient, and the fact that one

INHERITS 330 ACRES OF LAND; $50,000 IN DEBTS

Suit Is Filed to Untangle Debtors and Creditors of Charlotte Reese
Estate

A legal tangle which promises much worry for judge and attorneys was further complicated this morning when suit in partition was filed with Circuit Clerk Henry Westfall by Charles E. Reese, Lydia Reese, Rheugene Reese, Rose M. Reese, Wilbert Reese, Leona Russnogle, Charles Russnogle, Elmer Reese, Lansing Reese, Jessie Reese and Lottie Reese against Willis Reese and Josephine Reese, the Walton Trust Company, J. B. Robinson, the Farmers Bank of Skidmore and James E. Strickler.

The suit involves the estate of Mrs. Charlotte Reese, who died February 11 of this year. The estate consisted of one-fourth interest in a partnership ownership of 330 acres southeast of Skidmore, and 40 acres owned by her outright. Against the land there are mortgages and judgments amounting to more than $50,000. The farm is one of the finest in the county, but if sold under the sheriff's hammer would not bring enough to satisfy all claims, according to the attorneys.

J. H. Saylor is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Despite his great wealth accumulated through blackmail and other means, Thomas died a hermit, living alone without friends in a cave in a cemetery.

Governor Hyde has decided to appoint his brother to the office of State Insurance Commissioner. Barring the general antipathy toward the appointment of relatives, the Governor has the right to appoint whoever he pleases to office but the reasons for the appointment will open up the way for a great deal of criticism. He declares that he will appoint his brother in order to be able to make the fight for cheaper insurance rates. In the effort to break the insurance trust and to get a reasonable reduction in rates, he will have the general support of the public but, how many will believe that his brother is the only good man in Missouri through whom Governor Hyde could make this fight? There are many able and honest men who could be relied upon to serve the interests of the state conscientiously and many of them in the Governor's own party. If he desires to appoint his brother, why offer any excuse? If his brother is a good man for the place, let him go ahead and appoint him. There is nothing seriously wrong in that. He will have to assume the responsibility and stand for the criticisms for anybody he may appoint and no particular excuses should be necessary.

A great many people have been horrified by the discussion of the uses of poison gas in war and its development during the late war. The thought is naturally abhorrent. But, what part of real warfare is attractive or even humane? The deliberate picking off of a man by some one with a rifle in a concealed position is not a particularly humane performance. The training of a huge cannon on a company with a view to destroying the whole company, if possible, is no Sunday School act.

The dropping of deadly bombs on the heads of men from an airplane is not fraught with any sentimental consideration for the men who are made targets for the bombs. The simple act of shooting into the faces of the advancing enemy is not a specially friendly act, nor is any other act of real serious warfare. Some of it is more revolting and more horrifying than other acts but the fact remains that the deliberate killing of men is brutal and horrifying in any of its aspects. Public indignation burned at some of the developments of the late war but, if the more vicious things have served to awaken a more general opposition to warfare of all kinds, perhaps they have served a worthy purpose. Let us hope that the "frightfulness" that so aroused the world may be the basis for a refutation of armaments and the ultimate end of great wars.

BAD MAN IS OUT AGAIN

Roy Gardner, California's mail bandit, escaped from McNeill's Island federal prison recently. This is the third escape of Gardner. In April, 1920, in San Diego, Gardner held up and robbed a United States mail truck of $87,000 and was serving 25 years when he, with a number of other prisoners, made a dash for liberty during a baseball game at the federal prison. Two of the prisoners who tried to escape with him were shot while Gardner escaped.

TELLS BENEFITS OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

may intelligently call upon Him in any time of need and always find Him right at hand, ready to heal and save. This teaching brings God to us as a real presence, instead of an ephemeral hope, and so establishes the fact normally and naturally that He has dominion over all things, including the ills of the flesh, and will destroy all evils whether they present themselves as mental, moral, or physical, when He is intelligently asked to do so.

It has been said that the Christian Scientists are too familiar with God. They are familiar with God because, knowing Him to be what He is, knowing Him to be both the Father and Mother of all His children, they go to Him with all their troubles, sure that His love and wisdom will dispel them. It is just, however, in this connection to say that no people on earth so venerate, worship, and adore Him as do Christian Scientists, and this is true because He never fails them in their extremity.

We are told in the Bible that we must be regenerated. Regeneration is first mental, and is followed by the outward results as a natural consequence. It is very practical to say you cannot think right and do wrong, nor can you think wrong and do right. If we will gain the right knowledge of God, and man's relationship to Him, and cling to it, we shall always be well men. We must be obedient in all things to the law of God, or good, as He is called in the Jeelundic translation of the Bible, because it is our duty to see that Christ is lifted above human sense into spiritual realization, that all mankind may be drawn unto Him, and find the freedom promised them.

The marvelous life and works of Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of the Christian Science movement, its forever revered Leader, and the author of its textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," have destroyed the darkness and mystery heretofore surrounding God and Christ Jesus, and will literally, to quote from one of her poems (Poems, p. 75), "lift the shade of gloom" and for mankind make "radiant room" "in the life and the love of our Lord." In Science and Health and all her other writings Mrs. Eddy has given us the spirit of the word of God as He revealed it to her. After the revelation came, she tried and tested it in all ways, and healed the sick with the knowledge of God which it gave to her, in innumerable instances, until, when she did give it to the world as it was given to her, she did not ask mankind to accept a faith without works, but gave them a glorified faith, merging into understanding because of the works it accomplished.

Perhaps it seems very abstract to say that God and Principle are one, and yet it is true. Christian Science teaches us the vital necessity of taking spiritual reality out of the abstract in order to make practical use of it in meeting our daily needs. It reveals the immutability of spiritual law, proving the changelessness of God, and consequently a changeless man; a creator and creation always in agreement; changeless Love, changeless Truth, changeless Life, and, therefore, no hate, no lie, and no death.

This teaching is a radical departure from that given by dogma and creed. We need no human opinion or belief to find the "Way." In Christian Science we have no creed and no dogma, but we are taught to follow the Lord and Master in not only his words, but in his works. Only complete and absolute following of Jesus constitutes real, pure dominion, selfless religion, that which satisfies and reaches us in every human need, enabling us to stand and to see the glory of God revealed, even in the so-called physical man and universe.

We often hear it said, "My father's religion is good enough for me," but this stand is not the stand that our forefathers took. The occupation of this continent by civilized races was begun by a body of people who left home and country because they saw the need of a higher and purer sense of God, a clearer realization that religion in its observance is quite as essential on week days as it is on Sunday. The revelation which Mrs. Eddy has named Christian Science is the culmination of devout, pure desires to know God as He is. Christian Science in the few years since Mrs. Eddy wrote "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," has grown to be the great factor it is in the religious world because it satisfies, with the works that follow the practice of it, the longing for the enduring, the good, and the true, divorced from all unlike God or good.

To understand fully what a glorious thing the liberty of the sons of God is, one must understand that the word "real" as it is used in Christian Science means always God, and that which is like to Him, and per contra the word "unreal" means that which seems to be, and yet, because it is changeable and decays, sins, and dies, does not manifest God in any way. So when you hear a Christian Scientist say, or when you read in Mrs. Eddy's writings, a statement to the effect that sin, disease, and death are unreal, the meaning meant to be conveyed is that they are unlike God. I am sure all agree that God does not sin, does not get sick, and does not die. When we have this point of view we readily see the spirit of the statement in I Corinthians 15:22, "As in Adam" (the man of sin and matter, and therefore unlike God) "all die, even so in Christ" (the sinless image and likeness of the changeless good God or creator) "shall all be made alive." In other words, a right knowledge of God dispels the Adamic mist and dream, and reveals God as the One altogether lovely, and who is "of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity" (Hab. 1:13).

Because the healing work which Jesus and his disciples accomplished has not been demonstrated on earth for about sixteen hundred years, many intelligent thinkers have affirmed it to be their opinion that these works were never really accomplished. Christian Science proves that they were, however, by the wonderful works it is accomplishing in the healing of the sick today through sole reliance on the power of the Word of God. Jesus, through his words and works, is the way and the light of the world. This being true, the only logical thing for mankind is to do as he said and did, and not listen to the sophistry which declares "such times have gone by," and "it can't be done now." He gave us the light, showed us the efficacy of a right knowledge of God, and told us the results which believing on Him would produce.

Why should we doubt the power of the Word of God in healing the sick? Why should it seem an abstraction, therefore so transcendental as to be impossible of use in meeting our daily needs? Why should it not seem as divinely natural in this age as it was nineteen hundred years ago to be able to say, as did the blind man to whom Jesus restored his sight, "whereas I was blind, now I see"? Surely we do want the living God. We do not want a God who has departed from us. Christian Science asks of the human family, as Paul did of King Agrippa, "Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you that God should raise the dead?" (Acts 26:8). Why should there be any remonstrance or doubt that there is a supreme power to which we may appeal to meet all our daily needs, whether they seem to be mental, moral, physical or financial, while accepting human teaching that there is a power which holds the earth and constellations in place, governs the daily revolutions of the earth on its axis, and brings the seasons in orderly sequence year after year?

There is not a man, woman, or child on the face of the earth but wants to believe there is this changeless power, and that it is always at hand to help us, as we turn to it and trust it as our Savior. Think what a privilege is ours to realize that we may rest all our burdens and woes on this omnipotence, omniscience, and omnipresence—a power that is all Mind, all Spirit, all Life, all Truth, and all Love. How we should be singing hosanna and praises unto God for the joy of knowing the truth, that means freedom for all from the so-called laws of sin and death, revealing a firm foundation on the rock "against which the gates of hell cannot prevail" (No and Yes, p. 28).

It is natural, divinely so, that we should be well in all ways, and it is abnormal that we should be otherwise. We must remember that God created man in His own image and likeness, and that "image" means exact likeness or reflection; and then consider the logical deduction from this basis. To have a sick image we must have a sick original. Therefore, if we admit the image, man, is sick, it carries with it the admission that the original, God, is sick also. Let us follow this line of reasoning still further: if as Habakuk tells us, as already quoted, God is "of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity," and made, or even permitted, sickness to be made, and further, if God saw everything that He had made, and saw that it was good, logically we must consent to the belief that sickness is good and godlike; and this would compel us to picture a sick God, and heaven full of eternally sick men and women.

Do we like the picture? Would anyone here to go to heaven under such circumstances? The direct contrary to this abnormal theory is true, because we read in Revelation that all things are to become new, and John tells us that in heaven there is to be no more sin, no more sorrow, and that there shall be no more pain. Let us consider these two pictures, and decide for yourselves which seems the more rational and the more reasonable for you to believe and accept. I am sure if you do this you will arrive at the Christian Science conclusion, that the most desired of all things—health, peace, joy, and freedom—are our birthright, and are to be experienced to be such.

No Christian Scientist ever urges anyone to investigate Christian Science for any purpose primarily other than his own well-being. Christian Science has to be discerned individually, and salvation worked out to the basis of acceptance in the same manner. You will investigate and study Christian Science for your own benefit. You have a problem of some kind. You don't seem able to get any relief from it. You probably have tried in all the human ways you know, and none have brought a satisfactory solution. Of course we know that God should have been sought first, but generally is not. Mankind usually turns to God as a last resort. Remember we are seeking for our own benefit, so don't start out by thinking or saying, "It is too good to be true that God will help me with this problem."

As a matter of fact, when we turn to God as Christian Science teaches us to do, we are under no obligations to let it be known. Let us know that God is good and has given us a goodly heritage and that we cannot be separated from it. We must not insist that we are permanently held in bondage to the lie, even if every one we talk to says we are, but we must know instead that we have very good and perfect gift from God, and don't propose to, and cannot, be separated from it. We must not accept defeat as inevitable, but rather must know that victory is unescapable, that God has given us dominion over the earth, and the fullness thereof, and must realize that we cannot help having this dominion. We must think over all the phases of the trouble which seem to beset us, and get rid of believing them to be real; then know with all our heart and all our soul and our mind that we are not afraid, because we "live, and move, and have our being" in the perfect Love which destroys fear. Let us use just these simple thoughts, knowing it is the Christ-mind working in us, and the resultant freedom accompanying this knowing will cause us to "praise God from whom all blessings flow," and the realization that our salvation is a perfect demonstration and a permanent peace.

After her healing she spent years in a determined effort to find the truth which had raised her, clinging to the glimpses of light which came, even as old Jacob to his angel visitants, until these pure impartations from God became a revelation of His immutable nature and power, and then she healed others, even as she herself had been healed. In other words, the spiritual teachings found in the Bible which Mrs. Eddy discerned are the sole and only foundation on which the Christian Science movement stands, spreading its branches like the tree of Life over all creation, with its leaves—its teaching—ready at hand for the healing of all mankind.

In closing permit me to say this about Mrs. Eddy. She stands alone in modern history as the one who through consecration has been able to point out and to prove the spiritual import of the life and works of Jesus the Christ, showing us individually how to use them in our daily walks, how to make of them for all time a living, virile, irresistible, irrefutable, and irreversible power, to the tearing down of the strongholds of evil and the establishment of His kingdom on earth as it is in heaven. God placed His command upon her, and she obeyed it, and lifted the Christ up from the earth, out from matter and into Spirit, until we see that all men are beginning to be drawn unto Him, and the Scriptures are fulfilled.

Mrs. Eddy wrote "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" and it was revealed to her, and through it teachings may seem hard of acceptance because it overturns and destroys all man-made theories, yet does it bring to us the very presence of God so clearly, so vitally, and so usefully that as time sinks into obscurity, and the glories of the eternal God become ascendant in thought, all the earth shall call her blessed of God, a messenger of peace and holiness to all mankind.

"And now, brethren," in the words of Paul (Acts 20:32), "I command you to God, and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified."

WOMEN WHO CANNOT WORK

Read Mrs. Corley's Letter and Benefit by Her Experience

Edmund, S.C.—"I was run down with nervousness and female trouble and suffered every month. I was not able to do any work and tried a lot of medicine, but got no relief. I saw your medicine advertised in a little book that was thrown in my door, and I had not taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I could see it was helping me. I am keeping house now and am able to do all of my work. I cannot say enough for your medicine. It has done more for me than any doctor. I have not paper enough to tell you how much it has done for me and for my friends. You may print this letter if you wish."—ELIZABETH C. CORLEY, care of A. P. Corley, Edmund, S.C.

Ability to stand the strain of work is the privilege of the strong and healthy, but how our hearts ache for the weak and sickly women struggling with their daily rounds of household duties, with backaches, headaches, nervousness and almost every movement brings a new pain. Why will not the mass of letters from women all over this country, which we have been publishing, convince such women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help them just as surely as it did Mrs. Corley?

Auctioning Jobless Men in Boston

Urban Leroux, charity worker, is shown conducting the first "auction sale" of a man, since before the Civil war, on historic Boston common. What Missouri Farmers Are Doing!

Because of a live stock tour that was made by the farmers of the Madison County Farm Bureau through St. Francois county on August 27, two farmers of Madison county have realized their opportunity to get a herd of purebred cattle and the two in question have purchased 20 head of registered Herefords as foundation stock for future herds. Most of the cattle are 2-year-old heifers, among them some individuals that will make history in South-east Missouri.

Zane B. Parsons has been employed by the Howell County Farm Bureau to take charge of the details of work that were left when J. N. Britt, the county agent, resigned recently because of illness.

E. A. Ikenberry, for several years the county agricultural agent of Jackson county, has been named a member of the farmers' fruit marketing committee of twenty-one that was recently appointed by J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. Mr. Ikenberry operates an orchard near Independence.

William H. Wagenbreth, Jr., of Clay-ton, resigned as a member of the executive committee of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation at a meeting of the committee held at Columbia on Monday, Sept. 12. The committee elected John L. Boland, president of the St. Louis County Farm Bureau, to succeed Mr. Wagenbreth. Mr. Wagenbreth plans to enter the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri, this fall.

Federal agents have recently made a survey of Carroll county and the surrounding territory with a view to planning a campaign for the extermination of wolves and coyotes that are reported to have been causing large damage to farm flocks in that county.

Farmers of Andrew county still are hard at work trying to work out a plan of co-operation for the various farm organizations of the county. The latest meeting was held on September 2 at which time a special sub-committee was authorized to work out the details on a broader basis than was at first proposed.

W. A. Hook, county agent in Phelps county, has constructed a novel terracing demonstration that is attracting a great deal of attention at his office. The earth has been built up in miniature terraces around a hose that is attached to a hydrant and in this way he gets a fountain spray that shows the working of the terraces to perfection.

Joe Heskett and E. A. Torbett, horse-shoe pitching champions of Illinois, who recently successfully defended their title at the great state-wide Farm Bureau picnic held in that state, have issued a challenge to the world. If there are any Missouri exponents of "barnyard golf" who fancy their skill they can "get some action" by writing to the headquarters office of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation at Columbia.

Farmers of Carroll county are attending a fair and live stock show at Carrollton this week. More than $1,000 in cash prizes have been offered for the stock classes.

Near the kitchen door of the J. W. Corcoran residence in the east part of town late last spring a single tomato plant forced its way through the ground. Mr. Corcoran, a thorough farmer, watched with interest the growth of the plant and from time to time surrounded it with protection against the depredations of his own and neighbors' chickens. Bill noted that the plant was of a climbing variety and he placed sticks upon which it was fastened. It grew so rapidly that larger and heavier sticks had to be used and actual measurements made last Friday showed the height of the tomato plant was ten feet. MANY TO ENTER SHORT COURSE.

Benefits of Farm Training Greater as Problems Increase.
An unusually large number of inquiries in the daily mail at the Missouri College of Agriculture is evidence that there will be a very large enrollment this year in the Short Course in Agriculture which begins October 31. In this rapid growth of the Short Course there are involved two notable factors which are summed up by Dean F. B. Mumford of the College of Agriculture as follows:

"The Short Course in Agriculture which is offered annually by the Missouri College of Agriculture has become famous throughout the United States. More than 3,500 students have received training in this course. Thirty-one states and six foreign countries have been represented in the student body. There are today more than 3,000 young farmers in Missouri who have added to their value to the state, have broadened their view, have become leaders in their community, and have added to their incomes, because of the training received in the Short Course."

"Under the present conditions affecting agriculture, moreover, training in farm management and in the best methods of organizing and administering all farm enterprises is more important than when prices were good and times were easy."

"The number of inquiries about this course during the present season have markedly increased. The evidence is that there will be a very large enrollment. The College is making special preparations and increasing its facilities for this work. All young farmers interested should write for the illustrated booklet fully describing this course."

A two-day tour of Pike county farmers recently enabled the members of the Farm Bureau there to visit many soy bean fields and see for themselves what can be done with this kind of crop in that section of the state.

For Love of a Clown

By JANE OSBORN

(©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

People were walking slowly, sometimes stopping in front of the main window of Dugan's house furnishing store. There was an occasional giggle, sometimes a burst of laughter and such comments as: "Isn't he too impertinent?" "He's looking right at me—now he's beckoning?" "Such a thing for an able-bodied man to be doing!"

Sarah Taylor made it a principle never to stop to look in store windows. Moreover, she never lingered with the crowd. When she came by the window of Dugan's house furnishing store, she was never induced to buy anything that was not on that list.

She kept on walking as she turned to see what the loiterers were gazing at in Dugan's window. There she saw a long, lank clown in the usual voluminous clown suit, in white red and white stripes. His face was chalked white and he had a triangular patch of red to define his nose. He was pushing a vacuum cleaner with one hand over a small piece of carpet on which he had sprinkled sand. With the other, he was beckoning to the loiterers outside, beckoning and grinning invitingly, now looking straight at this one and now at that.

As Miss Taylor turned to look, the clown looked right at her, grinned and beckoned.

"The idea!" exclaimed Miss Taylor, still turning and apparently unable to take her eyes from the eyes on the other side of the glass that fixed her so intently. She colored with something akin to anger as she saw that the antics of the clown were directing the gaze of the loiterers on her.

"Well, I won't go in and buy one of his sweepers," she told whoever wished to listen, as she made for the entrance of Dugan's store, "but I'll just go in and see Mr. Dugan and tell him what I think of having a fellow standing in his window there making fools out of people passing by."

The clown met her at the door, eagerly.

"I want to let Mr. Dugan know what I think of letting a fool like you—" began the frate Miss Taylor. Then the color suddenly left her cheeks and she felt limp all over. "Sam," she whispered, "I never dreamed it was you!"

Didn't Want to Talk About Himself.

Samuel Warren, who had not recognized Sarah Taylor until she entered the store, felt almost as unnerved as she, but he had presence of mind to lead her into a corner of the store set aside for his use in receiving prospective customers.

"I always thought," said Sarah, "that I might meet you again, but I never thought it would be like this. I'm sorry you've had such bad luck. When I heard that your uncle had taken you into business with him, I thought maybe you'd have the chance you needed."

But Sam didn't want to talk about himself. He wanted first to hear of Sarah Taylor. Eagerly he seized upon the facts she divulged. She had not married, she had gone to live on a farm left her by an uncle. She had an old farmer and his wife who helped out, but it was clear that she did much of a man's work in making a meager living out of the worn-out land.

"It was ten years ago, too," she said with embarrassment. "I was twenty and you were twenty-one—I didn't think we would be like this when we met." She looked down at her shabby coat and gave a little tug at her hat, which was not of a recent vintage.

"And that night when you sent me off—do you remember what you told me?" reminded Sam. "You told me I could go and stay until I made good. You told me I was a clown—and it is as a clown that you find me." Sam laughed with genuine amusement.

"I was so young," Sarah defended. "You were all the time reading, and I thought you ought to be getting on and making money. I didn't know how hard it is to succeed then, Sam—I—" me now?" Sam asked, and he was leaning so close to Miss Sarah Taylor that the sales folk at Dugan's who chanced to be looking on thought he had surely "landed another order." One of them approached and Sam changed the tone of his voice. He stood up and extended the cleaner to Miss Taylor.

"So you think this medium size will be satisfactory?" he said briskly. "Let me see—what was the address?"

"Barlow's lane, the first place on the right as you turn from the main turnpike," said Sarah in a frightened voice, and then, "but I'll take it on the one condition—that you deliver it personally and give a demonstration at my own house. Come tomorrow some time if you can."

"I'll come tonight, say at seven o'clock," announced the clown, who appeared to be entirely the eager salesman. And as the salespeople at Dugan's were still within hearing, Miss Sarah Taylor went away without any further explanation to this man to whom she had once been engaged and from whom she had now been separated for ten years.

"Well, I'm blessed!" exclaimed one of the saleswomen who had looked on. "That was Miss Sarah Taylor, lives out in the country five miles from any electric connection. What's she doing ordering an electric cleaner? Believe me, it's some salesmanship that can make folks do a thing like that."

Samuel Warren carried a heavy vacuum cleaner when he walked into the unkempt driveway at the first place on the right as you turn from the main turnpike on Barlow's lane. But he did so only as a matter of form. He had carried it from his roadster, which he left locked a few hundred feet back in the lane.

"You had to carry that all the way from the trolley?" queried Miss Sarah Taylor. "And I don't know as I'm going to buy it after all. I haven't any electricity. I just said I wanted you to bring it so you would come out. I wanted to talk to you."

"What did you want to say?" queried Sam in a tone that made Sarah feel very young again. It was only after many false starts on the part of Sarah, and much encouragement on the part of Sam, that she was finally off with her little speech.

"Only this," she faltered at last. "I have learned to judge men differently from the way I used to. I sent you off that night because I thought you didn't care about getting ahead in the world, and now I don't care if you haven't, Sam. The farm here needs a young man, and we would at least get our living from it. It would be better than having to stand there in the window and look such a fool. I respect you for doing it, but I know times must have gone hard with you before you accepted that proposition. So, Sam, if you want to, there is a place waiting here on the farm."

Sam listened as she slowly developed her little speech. Then he laughed and took her in his arms and laughed a little more. Made good was exactly what he had done. He had been taken in by his uncle in the electrical appliances company and had been instrumental in making that company one of the largest in the country. He was now trying to add new force to their selling department. He wanted to see what a live man with imagination could do to get the small-town sales, which their company had not usually been able to wrest from competitors. He had decided that the first thing the small-town people needed to get them to buy one of the cleaners or washing machines his company produced was to get them talking.

So he had hit upon the idea of using a method out of the ordinary in window displays. A good-natured looking clown would attract attention. He could look straight out at the people and beckon to the people as a man in ordinary guise could not do. What these people needed was that bit of personal contact.

The sales department said their demonstrators balked at such a proposition. They said they couldn't sell vacuum cleaners that way. But Sam thought they could. So he had started out trying it for himself. He had been doing the territory adjacent to Centertown for two weeks, and more orders had come in and there were more prospects than had ever been known in that territory before. Sam hadn't known that Sarah had moved to Centertown. He thought of her still in another state.

"I am so confused," was all the distressed Sarah could say. "Please feel that I have never said what I said."

"But why?" urged Sam in the convincing tone that had been one of his big business assets. "If we forget that, then I'll have to take time to tell you how much I want you to marry me and come with me. But if we let your proposal stand, then we won't have to waste time on such preliminaries. We can hop right into my little roadster stowed away down the road and make tracks for the nearest marriage license bureau."

Dubious Honor.

"Why didn't you let Scribson dedicate his new book to you?"

"I regard Scribson's book as a literary crime," said the prominent lawyer.

"Well?"

"I didn't want to be made particeps criminis."

Honors Were Even.

She (tossing her head)—A kiss? Certainly not! I never kissed a man in my life.

He—You've nothing on me. I never did either.

Turn on the Light

Owls see better in the dark than they do in daylight. So do bats and one or two other freaks of animal life. BUT HUMAN BEINGS DO NOT.

Yet, it is peculiar how some of us persist in remaining in the dark on the very things that concern us most.

For instance: Now more than ever before, we ought to see that every cent we spend buys its full quota of value. Yet, lots and lots of folks go blithely along making their everyday purchases with their eyes shut tight.

AND IT'S SO EASY TO BE SURE YOU'RE RIGHT.

Spend a few minutes a day running through the advertisements in this newspaper. Then buy the products that have proved up under the spotlight of consistent publicity.

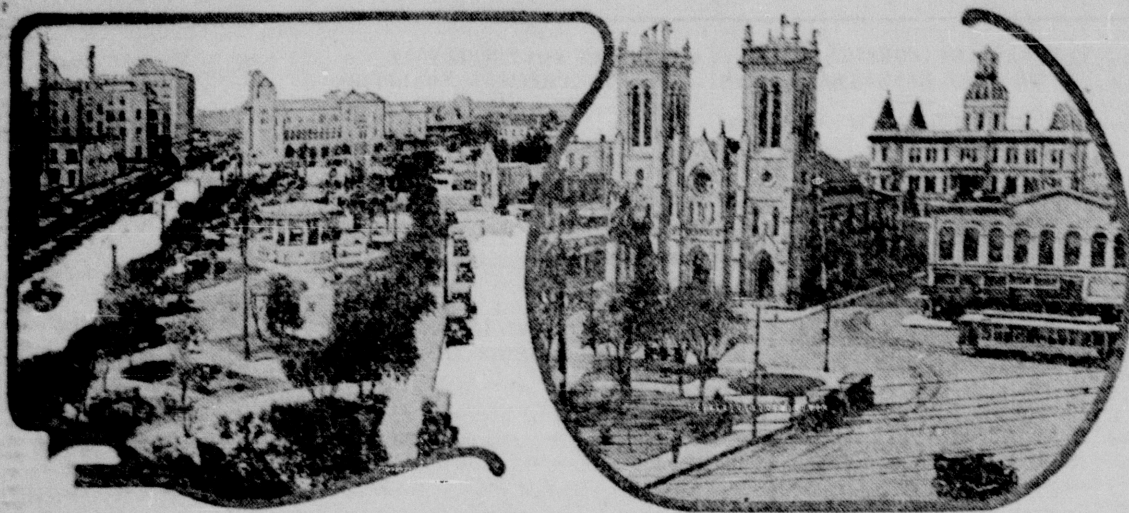

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise invite the inspection of thousands of eyes.

Here in the advertising columns you see products that have made good before the critical audience of buyers. These products are full value products. They return you dollar for dollar.

Buy them. Read the advertisements and buy the advertised products.

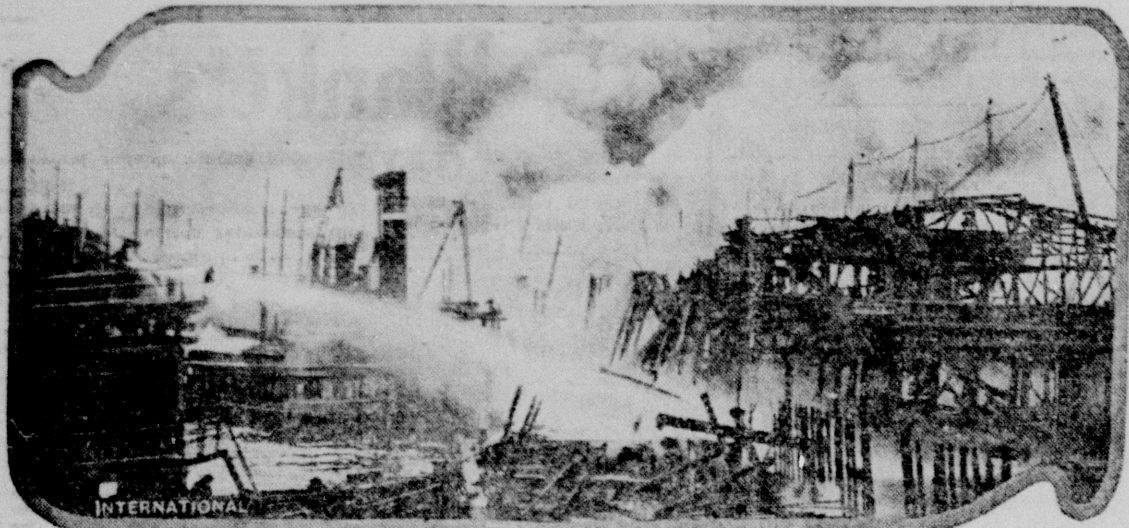

THEN YOU CAN KNOW YOU'RE SPENDING YOUR MONEY WISELY.

Flood Brings Death and Loss to San Antonio

Two views in the city of San Antonio, Tex., which was swept by a flood caused by a cloudburst, many lives being lost and vast damage done. The photographs show the Alamo plaza with the post office in the background, and the Alamo at the right; and the Main plaza and Cathedral of San Fernando.

Great Fire Burns Arm / Piers at Hoboken

One of the largest fires in the history of the state of New Jersey occurred the other day in Hoboken, and before it was brought under control most of the army piers had been destroyed. Several steamships, including the Leviathan, were damaged by the flames. On some of them were the bodies of hundreds of American soldiers brought from France. These were removed before the fire reached them.

Hilltop Happenings

The 300 mark in enrollment was passed this week. President Lamkin announced at the mass meeting yesterday that over 300 students had actually enrolled in classes, not including the Conservatory and Demonstration School students. That means that more than forty-four students enrolled this week.

Thirty-six students enrolled last year after the first of October. If this holds true this year and other vocational students sent here as expected, it looks like the 350 mark will be passed before the fall term closes.

No comparative figures are available as yet from the other Teachers' Colleges of the state, but the St. Louis Globe-Democrat in an article yesterday states that Springfield College leads with an enrollment of 1784. Information received from other state teachers' colleges show Warrensburg and Kirksville are second and Cape Girardeau fourth. Springfield's enrollment is twice that of any other teachers college in the state.

This time next week we will be able to record the result of the first football combat of the season. And it will be a different story than was told after the last Kirksville game. If the practice scrimmage of Wednesday night was any indication of the fighting spirit of the Bearents, we are awfully afraid that some of those Kirksville Bulldogs are going to get "mussed up."

"Potsy" Clark, the new K. U. football coach is credited with saying, "Men, when I insult you on the football field I mean it. Off the field forget it." We wonder if this doesn't express Coach Sprong's sentiments.

The girls' hiking club of the College, calling themselves, "The Husky Hiker's" organized this week and elected Alice Peery president and Mabel Cook, secretary. The following hike leaders have been selected: Julia Hankins, Lorene Hughes, Edith Moore, Louise Wilson, Helen Dean, Bess Carl, Dorothy DeMoss, Sylvia Littlejohn, Marie Cloud, Hazel Hall, Mildred Lot and Mildred Broyles. The important regulations of the club state that every hike must be authorized by a hike leader, 50 per cent of the credited miles must be club hikes, only one mile in the city will be counted on each hike, and each hike must be five miles or over to count. Sweaters will be awarded to members completing 200 miles within the school year of three quarters, a large emblem for 100 miles and a small emblem for 50 miles. Over sixty members participated in the first hike northeast of town, Wednesday afternoon. A small party of hikers under Edith Moore hiked to Wilcox this morning.

BLIND TO TEACH BLIND

Robert Pruitt was stricken blind on his tenth birthday, while at play with a number of Chinese schoolboys in the American mission compound at Hwanghsien, Shantung province, where he was born. A blow on the head produced paralysis of the optic nerves. That was 13 years ago. Today as a bachelor of arts of Harvard, where he graduated recently, Mr. Pruitt is returning to China with a plan to establish a school for the blind in connection with the Chinese college at Hwanghsien. His parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Pruitt, formerly of Youngstown, Ohio, have been stationed in Hwanghsien for many years.

Next Week At the Movies

At The Empire

On Monday and Tuesday, George Melford's production, "The Juckins" will be the feature picture. The leading roles are taken by Mabel Scott and Monte Blue. The play is taken from the story of the same name by Opie Read. The plot is centered around a young country boy who went to the mountains to teach school and found there romance and adventure and a beautiful girl to love. It is a delightful picture of humble life in North Carolina. Few changes have been made in the story so that every vital scene in the novel will be found on the screen.

One of the most picturesque and gripping chapters of American frontier history is revived on the screen in Marshall Neilan's picture version of Ransall Parrish's stirring story, "Bob Hampton of Placer," which comes Wednesday and Thursday.

James Kirkwood has the title role in this story, which is one of love and adventure, as well as battle with the redmen under Sitting Bull. Wesley Barry's smiling face and uncounted freckles will also be seen in a role especially created for him by Mr. Neilan. According to advance reports, the production represents the most ambitious efforts yet made by Marshall Neilan, who has to his credit several notable cinema successes of recent years. It was photographed among the scenic grandeur of Glacier National Park and on the actual site of Custer's Last Stand.

On Friday and Saturday, Douglas MacLean, the popular Paramount star will be seen in a snappy comedy entitled, "The Rookies Return." This is not a war picture, but a highly amusing comedy with a strong heart interest. Jimmie, the rookie returns from service expecting to peddle books, but finds that he has inherited a fortune, together with a set of old servants. He falls in love with a girl and true love does not run smooth until the girl's Dad takes a hand. MacLean and Doris May are the two stars that makes things hum in this light comedy. It is a picture that ranks with MacLean's picture, "24 Hours Leave."

At The Electric

"Her Sturdy Oak," in which Wanda Hawley will be seen Monday and Tuesday, is a breezy comedy of early married life, with officious in-laws, a jilted sweetheart, big debts, slim meals, twins, troubles and fun all mixed into a joyous domestic plot.

The Chicago Tribune of September 4 in commenting on the picture says "Her Sturdy Oak" is a tiptop comedy drama, verging on farce. "It's clever, funny, original, well acted and directed. Walter Hiers plays the hero in the picture and disproves forever the theory that nobody loves a fat man."

Viola Dana will be featured on Wednesday and Thursday nights in "Puppets of Fate." This picture depicts the vivid, colorful life of Venice; the Italian who forgot his wife, became a gambler in New York and married a hardened creature; the forlorn little woman who blazed her way to success, and eventually found happiness.

The story is from the pen of the well-known novelist and short-story writer, Donn Byrne, and has the brisk movement characteristic of his work. The picture opens with the marionette show in Venice, leads to the life of gambling and cabaret life in New York, and on to the marvelous unfolding in a court-room.

Masquerading as an old lady who takes roomers, and also as the servant maid who waits upon them, Agatha Kent, the heroine of "A Heart to Let," which will show Friday night could only be herself when she was alone.

This role gives Justine Johnstone, the star of "A Heart to Let," really three different impersonations, that of Agatha Kent, the poor young aristocrat, the old lady, "Miss Kent," and Norah, the maid. It is Miss Johnstone's fourth Reelart release, and offers unquestionably her best opportunity to act. Harrison Ford, popular with Maryville theatregoers, takes a leading part in this picture.

On Saturday Gladys Walton will be seen in her latest photodrama, "The Man Tamer." The story itself provides crisp and sparkling entertainment. It concerns a circus girl who attempts to run an animal act in a circus when her father suddenly dies, leaving her alone to battle the world. She turns from lion taming to man taming, and subdues a young and dissolute millionaire who wants to marry her. How she makes him prove his worth gives the story its concluding wallop. "The Man Tamer" was written as a "Red Book Magazine" feature by John Barton Oxford, adapted to the screen by A. P. Younger, and Harry B. Harris directed it.

TARKIO HIGH ELEVEN WINS FROM SHENANDOAH, 17-0.

Shenandoah, Ia., Sept. 24.—The Tarkio high school football team defeated the heavier Shenandoah high school team here yesterday in the opening game of the season, 17 to 0. Although too hot for football, both teams played a fast, hard-fought game. Shenandoah threatened to score in the last few minutes of play, but had to punt from the six yard line. Carpenter, Tarkio, half, received the punt and made a 30-yard run for a touchdown. Melchar kicked goal.

MISSOURI UNIT TO GET NINE FOR WEST POINT

Jefferson City, Mo., Sept. 24.—The Missouri National Guards are entitled to nine candidates for admission to West Point military academy next year, according to information received here this week by Adj. Gen. W. A. Raupp. The nine candidates are to be selected by the governor before Dec. 15 of this year, and final application for admission will be made in March, next year. "We are going to make an effort to have Missouri's quota filled at West Point next year," Adjutant General Raupp said here today. In the past, Missouri, as well as other states, has been lax in filling her appointed quota, and as a result all of the national guard allotments at West Point have not been filled. The governor is to be urged to select the candidates for the military academy as soon as possible to make certain that the state quota will be filled.

COUNTY COURT BUYS HORSESHOES FOR BORED OFFICIALS

How's this for broadminded ruling? A bill for $24 was recently presented to the county court of Randolph county for horseshoes. The horseshoes were furnished the county officers to play with during the dull season. And when the bill was presented the court ruled that it was the business of the people to furnish county officers with amusement when not employed, and allowed it.

Burglars Don't Seek the Limelight

Darkness is their stock in trade. They work by stealth—unheard and unseen—their movements cloaked in secrecy. It's honest folks that seek the light. They are the only ones who can risk it.

It's the same way in business. The manufacturer or the merchant who is not sure of his goods does not dare to advertise. Advertising would hasten the end of his business career—put him to a test he could not meet.

The man who advertises, deliberately invites your inspection. He tells you about his product or his merchandise and then lets it stand on its own merits. You can depend on him. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays you to read the advertisements you find in the columns of this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

Advertisements are interesting, instructive and profitable. They throw a powerful light on the very things that concern you most. Read them.
